Worship theme at Paul the Apostle

What does it mean concretely and practically to be a Christian? What does it really mean to be grasped and addressed in a totally unexpected way? When answering such questions people normally talk about their personal experiences in great detail. They often speak about my salvation from sin, my new peace of mind or my being 'strangely' blessed. But when St Paul briefly refers to what has come to be called his 'conversion' he does not write about any of these things: he is no wretched breast-beating sinner, nor is he intoxicated in some religious rapture. So what did Paul think being a Christian meant? This will be the theme at worship on Sunday.

Worship at Paul the Apostle on Sunday

On Sunday 12th June, the liturgist and preacher will be Dr Jeff Castles.

Paul the Apostle AGM will be held on 19th June.

Nomination forms for office bearers are available on the table in the Foyer.
